Campbell Property Sold

One of the largest real estate deals ever done in Bowden was brought to a close on Tuesday last when the east half of section 22 and 15, the property of Messrs Allan and John Campbell was sold to Mr Richardson of New Westminster. The sale of Mr A Campbell's land was transacted through his local agent Mr P McDermott while Mr H F Powell was the man responsible in putting the deal through. The land which is situated a quarter of a mile west of Bowden and directly adjoins the townsite, brought $25.00 per acre. The recent number of property deals in Bowden made it look as if the town were beginning a new era of prosperity.

A Correction

A typographical error appears on page six in the double column heading reading "Dominion Elections September 15". The heading should read Dominion Elections September 22nd. Ed.

Good Circus Here Aug 7th

The J H Eschman European Railroad Shows exhibit here on Monday, Aug 7. A glance at the list of wonders to be seen with this show will lead one to believe that the limit in novelties has finally been reached. The J H Eschman European Shows present this year under their mammoth tents, more clean, wholesome amusement than has been offered by many other shows in years. The Aerial Weydts head the list of arenic novelties, which include many foreign acrobats. Animals of every description including Little Nemo, the smallest elephant ever exhibited, make up a menagerie worth going miles to see.

The big free street parade at noon beggars description, and in all is a fair index to the wonderful performances that follow.

Good Time at Garden Party Last Night

The garden party, under the auspices of the Bowden Brass Band held last evening on Mr H E Shenfield's lawn was a success in every way. The fine weather brought out a large and jolly crowd who thoroughly enjoyed themselves playing old fashioned summer games and romping about the lawn. The band rendered music for the occasion which many took advantage of and tripped the "light fantastic". A refreshment booth was erected on the lawn, the proceeds of which was turned over to the treasury of the band. Before the gathering broke up cake and coffee were served to those present.

A Clean Show

No gambling, Profanity or Intemperance is permitted about the shows, and no Fakers or Swindlers are tolerated at any time or under any circumstances.—J H Eschman, Gen Mgr.

St. Mathews Church Calendar

A new "Baptismal Bowl" has recently been added to the furnishing of St. Mathew's Church, Bowden, and the infant son of Mr and Mrs Robson of Bowden was the first child to be baptized there from.

On Sunday, July 30th, the Rev A McClain Banting performed the ceremony, and Master Charles Christopher, appeared to thoroughly enjoy it, as coolly, seated on the pastor's arm, he smilingly surveyed the congregation. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with white flowers. Mrs Taylor presided at the organ and a good congregation was in attendance. A solo was feelingly rendered by Mr Smith to sweet strains of music, softly played by Mr Smith's sister-in-law. After the ceremony was over Miss Dorris Farmer presented Master Robson with a bouquet of flowers in honor of the occasion.

A Junior Branch of the "W A" is being organized under the able management of Mrs J G Adam, of Red Lodge. The first meeting, which was held about three weeks ago, would have opened with a full number of members had not a thunderstorm prevented those who live in the country from attending. Next Tuesday there will be a meeting in St Mathews Church at 3 o'clock.

Orange men from three lodges, Bowden, Innisfail, and Olds will meet for Devine Service on Sunday next at St Mathew's church, Bowden at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon. Service will be conducted by the Rev A McClain Banting.

Royal Neighbors to be Organized

The local camp, No 13774 Modern Woodmen of America held a social evening in McCue's hall on Tuesday night to which the lady friends of the members were guests. The object of the gathering was to discuss with the fair sex the proposition of forming a camp of "Royal Neighbors", the sister lodge of the Woodman. Representatives from Olds Camp of Royal Neighbors, which is a very flourishing organization, were present and gave what information that was desired with regard to the proper steps to be taken in such a movement. Much enthusiasm was expressed by the local ladies present who seemed very anxious to have a local camp formed, and although no organization took place last night it is only a matter of a few weeks when a camp will be instituted.

The entertainment put on by the local Woodman consisted of a "mock initiation" in which Mr Elphrick was the candidate for adoption. There was, in this, some very humorous skits and scenes presented which was received with much laughter and delight by all present. Following the mock initiation lunch was served by the young ladies after which the gathering dispersed.

The petitions circulated by the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform Association asking for local option in this license district will be sent in to the license commissioners at the end of this week. The representatives of the association here were very successful in their campaign having secured fifty names over the percentage required by the representatives of the license commission.

INDIAN BONES FOUND.

Weston, May Have Been Scene of a Great Battle.

The unearthing of a couple of dozen skeletons by workmen excavating for the foundation of a new Presbyterian Sunday school at Weston, Ont., has aroused considerable speculation on the part of those who have made a study of the customs of the early inhabitants of the continent.

These bones were found buried in the form of a circle with all the skulls towards the centre, at a depth of less than two feet. The place of burial was on a slight mound a few yards from the bank of the Humber, beside the old Indian trail connecting Lakes Simcoe and Ontario. The mystery of the silent souvenirs has been deepened by the fact that the oldest residents of the town of Weston have no recollection of human remains having ever before been found near the Sunday School mound, nor of the use of the place as a burial ground at any time in the dim past. Furthermore, no utensils, weapons, or articles of apparel or ornamentation were found along with the bones which might have assisted in revealing their grim secret.

In the opinion of Dr. R. B. Orr, superintendent of the Provincial Museum, who is an admitted authority on the history of the earliest inhabitants of the continent, the bones so unexpectedly unearthed at Weston are unmistakably those of North American Indians. To state for a certainty to which tribe the human possessors of the skeletons belonged is, however, not so easy.

In view of the fact that the remains were discovered within that tract of country which is known to have been held by the Hurons for centuries, one might be led to assume that they represented buried Indians of Huron or Iroquois-Huron stock. This hasty conclusion is shattered, however, by the manner of burial of the bodies, as evidenced by the strange arrangement in which they lay, when disturbed by the laborers' spades.

The Hurons were quite as particular about the disposition of their dead underground as the Old World ancients, and seldom, if ever, departed from their own conventional "ossuary" form of burial. The method was briefly as follows: As soon as an Iroquois-Huron died, whether from natural causes or from the arrow or tomahawk of his enemy, the body was procured by his tribesmen and exposed in a treetop, or on an elevated platform, or in some such place of safety until nothing but the bare skeleton remained. These dried skeletons were tied up in individual bundles of bones with the skulls attached, and laid aside pending the great tribal burial day. Upon these occasions, which came at rare intervals, the bones of all the clans of the Huron tribe assembled with the bones of their dead at some elevated spot fixed by the chiefs as satisfactory for the final resting place. Here a rectangular pit was dug to a depth of from four to eight feet, frequently in some natural clay mound. The bundled bones and skulls were piled into this New World Golgotha, and carefully covered with a protecting layer of sticks and branches. Above this the clay was piled in and packed down to the level of the surrounding ground, and, to the accompaniment of much feasting, and incantation and ceremonial, the dead warriors were impressively committed to the "happy hunting grounds."

In the natural course of things the layer of branches between the bones and the covering earth decayed, but in the meantime the clay had been baked into a solid mass, and the human remains were entombed in a sound and dry sarcophagus into which scarcely any earth filtered.

One of these Huron "ossuary bone-pits" was unearthed fifteen years ago by Dr. Orr on a farm about fifteen miles to the north of Weston, and a couple of dozen of the contained red men's skulls now adorn shelves in the Normal School Museum on Gould street, Toronto. This pit was about ten feet long and eight feet in width, with such carefully prepared walls and "roof" that scarcely any clay had caved in on the bones.

It is not improbable that a forgotten battle was fought on the banks of the Humber, and that the invaders buried their dead in the hereditary manner on a suitable mound in the neighborhood before returning to their own country to the south of the Great Lakes.

A couple of the discovered skulls are in a fair state of preservation, and will probably be presented to the Provincial Museum, but the remainder have become soft and decomposed.—Toronto Star Weekly.

A Record Trip.

A journey of 2,419 miles on an arab pony has just been accomplished by Mr. J. H. Bill, a British consul in southern Persia, who has reached his home in Staffordshire on the back of this plucky little animal. He told a newspaper representative that he believed it constituted a record for one animal. The early stages of the journey were the worst, for the pony had to tackle hilly and broken country, and he was unable to average more than twenty miles a day. One incident of the journey was an attack by brigands.

HOW TO OBTAIN A GOOD COLOR

A TREATMENT TO RESTORE THE BLOOD SUPPLY THAT HAS BEEN MOST SUCCESSFUL

There is only this to tell people who are pale, weak and bloodless. You are pale and weak because you haven't enough blood and you won't be better until your blood supply is increased. You should not lose any time in increasing your blood supply, for people who neglect anaemia, often slip into a deadly decline. When you have increased your blood supply you can reasonably expect to have a good color, to have lost that tired, breathless feeling, to have a good appetite and get good nourishment from your food. Now the only quick and always effective way to get a supply of new, rich, red blood is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to make new blood, and this new blood coursing through the veins, brings health and strength to every organ and every part of the body, making weak, ailing people, bright, active and strong. This has been proved in thousands of cases of which the case of Mrs. George Clark, Abbotstford, B. C., is a fair sample. Mrs. Clark says: "After spending two years and six months in a hospital training for a nurse, I began to fail in health, was very pale and the least exertion would leave me out of breath. After graduating I came to British Columbia to take up my profession as a private nurse. The first case I took I found I was not able to go on with my work. Doctors' tonics failed me and acting on my own judgment I purchased a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before I had finished them I was really surprised at the result. The color came back to my face. I gained in strength and by the time I had used nine boxes I was back at my work as a nurse. I have since married, but still have my friendly feeling for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EFFECT OF THE TARIFF ON PRICES

Canadian Manufacturer Does Not Impose on the Duties

An erroneous impression exists in the minds of many Western people that the manufacturer of Canada takes advantage of the tariff by raising his selling price by the full amount of the duty, with which he is protected from foreign competition. Facts show that the Canadian manufacturer does not, and could not safely, do such a thing. The home manufacturer, to-day, does seven times as much business in Canada as the foreign manufacturer. Would the factories of Canada be able to secure that much more business than the keen foreign competitor if prices were so inflated? No they would not and the main purpose of the tariff is not to rob, but to protect.

That the manufacturer should be able to improve the quality of his product and at the same time reduce the price to the consumer may at first seem incredible, but it all hinges upon the output. Every manufacturing operation whether large or small involves a certain amount of stationary overhead expense including such items as rent, heat, light, insurance, taxes, office expenses, superintendence, etc. If these expenses have to be met out of the returns from a small output it follows that the proportion carried by each unit of production will be comparatively high. But if on the other hand they can be spread over a large output, then the proportion carried by each unit of production may become insignificantly small. Generally speaking, the larger the output the lower the cost of production and the cheaper the price to the consumer, hence the advantage of a tariff which secures the home market or at least the bulk of it to the home manufacturer.

A few examples will suffice to illustrate how this works out. In 1878 a Canadian company began the manufacture of buggies. In 1879 they sold all told about 3 buggies, for which farmers paid them from $160 to $170 each. Last year in various kinds of wheeled vehicles they had an output of 15,000 and were able to offer the farmer for $85 a far better buggy than the one he used to have to pay $170 for. In 1878 the price of sugar was nine and ten cents a pound retail; today it is under five cents. The best binder in 1878 sold at from $270 to $300; today the farmer gets a lighter and more compact binder that will last longer for $125. In 1878, single reapers retailed in Ontario at from $100 to $105; today the best reaper retails at from $60 to $65.

How Would You Like To Freeze to Death this Winter?

That may happen if you do not arrange for at least a portion of your coal supply now.

The Miner's Strike is Still Unsettled.

Owing to the long period of idleness there is now no stock of coal available in the western towns. When the cold weather begins, even if the mines are running full blast, the output will not be sufficient to meet the requirements, and the car supply will be another source of trouble owing to the very heavy grain crop this year. Consumers should therefore take warning and provide against the inevitable scarcity of coal for the reasons stated above, and if you have no money, it will pay to borrow it and buy a few tons now.

THE TAJ MAHAL

The Mogul architecture of the early part of the seventeenth century as seen in the towns of N W India betokens such perfect symmetry, grace, and beauty of form that its designers seem to have been inspired with the highest ideals of art, which almost belong to another worldliness. As the Greek sculptors of old in their work succeeded in transcending humanity, showing how man might have been created; instead of how he had been created, so the Mogul architects succeeding in surpassing all the knowledge canons of architectural beauty. Their creations appear to speak of a former existence in the fabled world, that the modern pagan loves to recall when he walks in a land where legend trembles in the flowers and whispers in the trees. The many exquisite, Mogul buildings, the peace-de-resistance is the Taj Mahal; or to give it its correct name, Taj bibi ke Rosa, the tomb of the Crown Lady.

The Taj, as it is popularly called, is the tomb erected by Shah Jehan, the Palace Builder in 1630 A.D. at Agra to the sacred memory of his beloved wife, Mumtaz Mahal, the Chosen of the Palace, an extremely beautiful woman and a faithful wife. She bore Jehan fourteen children, but in giving birth to her last child she died. The conception of the Taj was delightfully poetic in thought. The site selected by the husband was among her loved flowery treasures and fragrant shrubs—the Queen's garden. And now she lieth lapped in her garden under the most wonderful mausoleum in the world, a monument of art which is a standing tribute to womanly grace and purity.

The Taj, traditionally said to be designed by a Turk, or Persian. Ustad by name, took twenty thousand men gathered from India, Ariaba, Persia, and probably Italy, according to different historians, some seventeen to thirty years to build. The grounds of the Taj are enclosed by a massive wall crowned with white marble domes. The Taj Ganj Gate, the Great Tomb Gate, a fitting entrance to the grandest burial-place extant, is a portal of gigantic proportions of red sandstone, patterned with white marble, and crested with twenty-six marble cupolas. This massive gateway is a wonderful piece of structure and is only dwarfed by the superb and chaste beauty of the Taj itself.

The first glance of the Taj through the large open doorway is "like a peep into fairy-land through the mouth of a giant's cave". The superlative beauty of the scene strikes the eye like a blow; it sounds a note of wonder never before touched. It is a contrast to make a dream, particularly after the dust, heat, glare, and roar of ceaseless travel, melting the trials and pin pricks of life into a radiant silence and bathing the human spirit in gladness as a warm wave of the Ionian Sea bathes the shore of an orange grove island murmuring peace. Under the cloudless sky every detail of the great view from the portal stands out with a magical distinctness: the lines of the tomb are sharply defined against the profound blue.

The exquisite white marble structure is of noble size; it consists of a square central building with a huge dome, and four tall, graceful minarets rearing their crowns from the corners of the plinth like

"— four tall court ladies Tending their princess."
The Taj is of perfect proportions; it can only be grasped as a whole, it seems to baffle detailed description; it affords an example of the limitations of human language. How beautiful it looks in the sunshine, exposing its charms with a frankness which is part of the glory of all things in the topics! No brush, no camera can give an adequate expression of the light and shadow as they mingle with a delicacy suggestive of the ethereal, and fleeting chase each other over the snowy surface of the flawless marble.

And the garden, with its fragrant shrubs, solemn cypresses, sweet flower-beds, clear reservoirs of water in which twenty or more fountains joyously spurt forth their myriads of glistening diamonds, is of ravishing beauty, brilliant not garish for the Oriental has the art of making colors friends instead of enemies of blending them into harmonies that are gay yet touched with joy and peace. The composite picture—The Taj, the trees, the flowers, the shrubs, the fountain—forms a combination vain to seek in any other place on this fair earth.

The magnificent exterior effects of the Taj prepares the imagination for gorgeous splendor in the interior, but it is singular how all that is anticipated falls short of the reality. The central chamber bathed in soft, subdued light is of royal grandeur and magnificence; it is a realm of beauty such as associated with the palaces in fairy tales or the Arabian Nights. The arches of the portals and windows have inlaid whole chapters of the Koran in black marble, and it is said that if the whole book of the Koran were lost it could be replaced from the Taj. Never were pages of a religious book more graphically written. And where could the Koran be more appropriately inscribed than on the walls of this great Mohammedan tomb? Every foot of the remaining walls are figured with flowers, scrolls, frets and screens. Chastened beauty runs riot. The floral designs of extreme delicacy and richness are worked in jasper, cornelian, jade, onyx, bloodstone, and precious stones. A single flower may have over thirty, or forty, or fifty component parts, yet so well has the workmanship been performed that the flower looks a perfect whole and strangely real. The screens, wreaths, frets, scrolls, and trellis-work, bewitching and artistic, are revelations of the sculptor's art, and have their vast wealth of detail heightened by inlaid precious stones and rarer gems. It has been truly said that "The Taj was designed by Titus and finished by jewellers."

The tomb of Queen Jehan is in the basement, and despite the marks of despoilation of the ruthless Rajput marauders of a hundred and fifty years ago, still retains much of its former glories. To the left of Noor Jehan is buried Shah Jehan in a tomb of less imposing appearance. The burial place of the King and Queen are surrounded by an octagonal marble screen of fascinating design decked with jewels rare. History has it that the tombs were enclosed by a fence of gold.

A note uttered by the voice soars from the basement to the dome and in echo sweet and pure is reflected back again in delicious undulations like the dying cadence of

WHICH ROAD?

A Case Where the Wrong One Brought Great Happiness

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

It was a hard, level road with many a sinuous curve that kept the siren tooting hoarsely as the dusk obliterated the stiff sentinel woods on either hand and gave Justin Deios little opportunity to test the speed of his new racing car.

"Hi, mister, hi!" shrilled a young voice above the rush of his machine.

With a few rapid movements he stopped dead short and tried to pierce the twilight with his sand-filled eyes. "Well, what's up?" he demanded curtly.

"It's me," said the small voice, with a hint of a sob in it. "I'm up in this tree—right over your head."

"My gracious, what are you doing up there?" Justin stared upward to where the limb of a wild cherry tree bent over the road. The air was filled with the pungent smell of wild cherry blossoms and the bruised bark of the tree. There was the glimmer of a small white face and a white blouse balanced perilously on the limb.

"Now, you just slip off that limb and drop—that's the boy! Caught you, didn't I?" said Mr. Deios.

Justin tucked the boy in a corner of the seat and prepared to resume his ride, but the boy placed a cold little hand on his and raised his voice in protest.

"Please don't, mister! I'm afraid to go up that road," he bawled lustily.

"What are you afraid of? How do you expect to go home if you don't take that road?"

"I'm lost!" wailed the strayed one. "Where do you live?" demanded Justin.

"Cross High-way!"

"Well, you're all right then—this is the Cross Highway," reassured Justin.

SHE LOOKED AT HIM WITH ASTONISHMENT as he threw in the clutch and pulled the starting lever, but the boy grasped him with trembling fingers.

"No, it isn't, sir; I missed it way back. I ran away from nurse, and I've been trying to find it ever since and—"

A handsome lamp-post supported a large electric globe which gave down sufficient light to convince Justin that he was indeed on the wrong road.

"Well, I'll be jiggered!" he exclaimed at last.

"I told you it was the wrong road," piped the little voice rather triumphantly.

"So you did. Well, it's the first time I knew this old road went beyond Cross Highway! Seems to stop right here too. Do you know where this drive leads to, son?"

"To perdition!" said the little fellow calmly.

"Perdition!" repeated Justin, scandalized. "Who told you that?"

"Mother did. I asked her. I waited in the carriage once when she went inside, and she said it was perdition. So I asked cook what perdition was, and she said it was—you know the hot place."

"What's your name?"

"Frederick Templeton Leeson. That's my name too."

"Ah! Then you're Leeson's little chap, eh? Well, you are a good way from home. Guess I better run up this drive and telephone to your folks that you're all right. What do you say?" Justin turned the car into the drive and sped swiftly up its length. "I don't want to go to that place!" wailed Master Frederick Templeton Leeson. "Cook says they try you on toasting forks if you're naughty."

"Never you mind, son. You're a good boy. They won't fry you nor bake you. Very likely all the ladies will kiss you and call you a sweet child."

"I hate ladies, and I won't be kissed, and I won't be fried!" protested Frederick, kicking the shins of his rescuer with sudden fierce ingratitude. "You stop this car, mister!"

"At your command, sir," said Justin as he brought the machine handsomely under the lighted porte-cochere and jammed down his levers. His siren uttered a brief commanding salute, the door opened instantly, and a jump servant appeared.

"I've missed the road, my man," said Justin, "and I would like to be set right if you can direct me to the Cross Highway."

"A mile back, sir. You probably passed the turn without noticing. From there on is private property. If you turn around and go back over your own tracks you'll find your way all right."

"Thanks," said Justin, tossing the man a coin. "Oh, I wonder if your people would allow me to use a telephone for a moment. I've picked up a little lost boy and—"

"Certainly, sir. If it's Mr. Leeson's little boy it's all right. They've been telephoning here to know if we've seen him. Come right in."

He held open the door and admitted Justin and his sleepy charge into a wide entrance hall softly carpeted and delicately lighted with carefully disposed electric bulbs. A wood fire whispered in the wide fireplace, and several comfortable chairs were gathered around the hearth, where a white-haired woman was dispensing tea.

There were several other women, some within the tall shadow of the settle. The white-haired woman dropped a teaspoon with a sliver of chocolate and arose to her feet. Justin saw with dazed eyes that her face was started out of its customary sweet repose and that she looked at him with astonishment and displeasure rather than welcome.

"I ask your pardon, madam—Mrs. Stone. I came upon your place by mistake, and I asked your man if I might telephone to this little boy's parents that he was found and that I would return him at once," he stammered after a little awkward silence.

"Oh, it's little Frederick! How delighted poor Evelyn will be. Here is the telephone booth, Mr. Deios."

When Justin emerged after reassuring the delighted parents that he would return the wandering Frederick to their arms at once he found Mrs. Stone awaiting him at the end of the corridor. She held out her hand, smiling rather sadly as she did so.

"I must ask your pardon, Mr. Deios, for not giving you a heartier welcome. I was so startled at sight of you I quite lost my wits for the moment."

"You hardly expected to see me," said Deios with a rueful smile. "I'm afraid if I'd known you were here I'd never have ventured to knock at your door, hospitable as it always was in the past. Pardon me for that blundering reminder!" he begged hastily.

"Certainly, Justin. Will you come and drink a cup of tea with us?" She paused at his protesting hand.

"Thank you, dear Mrs. Stone, but I couldn't—not until you chance your mind about me, you know," he said firmly.

"Change my mind! Ah, Justin, we did that almost immediately after you left in anger. If you had only read and heeded our explanatory letters you would have known that Mr. Stone was quite satisfied that the fault of the accident rested entirely on a defect in our machine and not in your driving. But you never answered our letters, and you declined to see my husband."

"I never received your letters, Mrs. Stone, and as soon as I learned that Dita—Miss Stone was out of danger I went abroad and have been home only a few weeks. You see, I bought a place not far from here—thought I'd get in a new part of the country and wouldn't meet any of the old crowd. But it's a small world."

"It is indeed, and you haven't asked after my daughter, Justin. It's three years since you last saw her, isn't it?" She searched his face with anxious motherly eyes.

"I haven't dared ask for her. I've felt that I was to blame for reckless driving, and I shall never forget her white face as she lay unconscious on the stones nor the words of your husband as he accused me of having murdered her—murdering Dita when—oh, what's the use? You knew how I felt about it, Mrs. Stone."

For an instant her warm hand pressed his, and then she glided away to give place to a tall, slender form, crowned with golden hair, whose face was rosy with health and whose gray eyes were now alight with a happiness which had been postponed until this blissful moment. Justin could scarcely believe his hungry eyes when her own answered his unspoken appeal and the quiet corridor witnessed the reunion of the parted lovers.

After awhile the waiting Master Frederick Templeton Leeson demanded to be taken to his mamma.

don't like perdition!" he protested. "Perdition!" repeated Justin for the second time that evening. "Why perdition, eh?"

Perdita Stone laughed merrily. "It's such a good joke, Justin. It seems his mother told him this road led to 'Perdita', and he translated it into 'perdition', and the cook gave him a literal interpretation of that word, and he's been afraid to come here ever since, haven't you, Frederick?"

"I like Miss Dita, but I don't want to stay in perdition," jowled Frederick.

Justin lifted him to his shoulder and turned to Mrs. Stone with his old winning smile. "I'm going to take Frederick home. Would you trust Perdita with me too?"

Without a word Mrs. Stone stood a tiptoe to kiss the tall young man, while Perdita slipped away to don coat and scarf.

As they whirled down the dark avenue and into the winding road Frederick snuggled between them and uttered a sleepy sigh.

"I guess we're out of perdition now," "And right into paradise," concluded Justin happily.

The Annual Slaughter.

Every session there is a "slaughter of the innocents." At the opening, three days a week are devoted to the interests of private members, who place academic resolutions on the order paper and introduce public bills and then forget all about them. As the weeks go by private members get a day chopped from their allowance, and when the half way mark in the session's progress is reached, the Government appropriates every day for its own business, and the mass of bills and motions is heaved overboard.

Then there is great uproar on the part of these same careless ones who have allowed their days of opportunity to slip by. Many a man considers he has fulfilled his duty to his constituency when he places a motion to abolish the Senate on the order paper, and proceeds to draw his monthly indemnity on the alleged ground of public service. So long as the "smoking room" provides greater attractions than the Chamber, and the whist table than the committee's, just so long will the list of stranded motions and bills when the session wears away be a formidable one.

This year 38 public bills and orders and 12 resolutions fall under the knife of Lord High Executioner Laurier. One thing can be said, and that is they have served their purpose, for the drones who neglected them until they died, can return to their constituents and tell them they would have proceeded with their bill or resolution, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier was afraid of it and ordered its decapitation. Sweet are the uses of political expediency.—The Mace in Saturday Night.

Measuring Brush.

R. T. Coady, city treasurer of Toronto, once lost a bet—or so the story goes, at any rate—over a lumberman's ability to measure brushwood. It may not be generally known that Mr. Coady used to be in the lumber business himself, and can size up a pile of wood with some facility, even to this day. The art of mentally measuring the number of feet in a stick of timber is a mysterious one. Lumbermen can do it with amazing rapidity and accuracy without putting a rule near the pile. But Mr. Coady had a friend who said he could accurately measure a big pile of brushwood, an assertion which was met by all present with some derision. After the bet was put in hard and fast snape, the lumberman dumped the brushwood in a big tank of water, held it under the surface, measured the height to which the water rose, and from this calculation the amount of water which the brushwood displaced. Thus he gave Mr. Coady indisputable figures. "That," says the city treasurer, "was the most remarkable way of measuring lumber that was ever invented, for it was so accurate that it took into account every twig and every wart on the bark. I lost."

Amazing Prosperity.

Mr. A. D. Thorne, president of the Union Bank of Halifax, was a visitor at a little weather-beaten country church near Sydney, C.B., one Sunday evening last fall. The unpainted exterior and meagre furnishings inside, as well as the shabby coat of the minister, bespoke poverty or a none too generous congregation.

When the deacon passed the hat, Mr. Thorne contributed a dollar for the betterment of the church's financial standing. It loomed up large beside the pennies and occasional silver pieces in the old battered derby, and caused the deacon's eyes to open in amazement.

The collection completed, he hesitated an instant, returned up the aisle to the banker's pew, and, leaning over, asked in a whisper, which could be heard all over the house, "You put a dollar in the hat; did you mean it?"

A Loss That Was Felt.

Captain Hardess Lloyd, the famous polo player, was talking about the cessation of flogging at the great English public school of Eton.

"I am glad," he said, "that flogging is now done away with. Eton boys used to suffer a good deal from the birch. There was one Eton master in the seventies who flogged so severely that his death, when he came to die, was announced in the papers among the shipping news. They announced it under the head:

"Loss of a whaler."

AN UNNATURAL HABIT.

Man Never Was Intended to Stand or Sit Erect All of His Waking Hours.

According to medical men we don't recline enough, and as a consequence we are tired and "worn out" much of the time. All through the east the nations that are untainted with the ways of the white man continue to crouch about their fires and gossiping places. The desert Arab sits at his ease half crouched at the door of his tent, eating his evening meal and watching his camels feeding in the grassy areas of the oasis. When the meal is over he reclines against his high saddle and horse gear that lies at the tent door and smokes his hookah and contentedly watches the great, bright stars of the desert. He is not bothered over whether or not he is going to grow stoop-shouldered and ill to look upon. The Turcoman is still an unspoiled child of the sand wastes. When he rests he rests. With him, as with the Arab, the pull of gravity on the vital organs is checked by his habits of repose. They have no veneered and varnished civilization that forbids them from taking their ease in public places.

The poor white man is forced to hold himself as nearly erect as possible every minute of the day. If he slouches at his desk the chief clerk admonishes him to remember that the office is not a lounging-room. If he loafs at his ease back of the counter for a needed rest of a minute or so, he fractures some iron-clad rule against the slouchiness of the selling force. A great many department store managers are careful to see that the processes of civilization are not checked in any degree by the girls who sell the ribbons, and the Mergier sitting down for a moment. Everyone must be "right on their toes," and squarely and uprightly on them at that.

Consequently, the earth pull, the forces of gravity, begin to weigh on the workers like lead, late in the afternoons and evenings of the busier seasons. When the lad or lassie of six years is started into the schools a considerable portion of the teachers' time is spent in keeping them sitting bolt upright at their desks. To "rest them" they are marched around the room at regular intervals, all marching as nearly erect as they possibly can. The boy is given physical culture ad nauseam to keep him erect and straight. The girl is sent away to some finishing school for young ladies, where she finds that to slouch ever so little from the prescribed attitude is one of the seven deadly sins. And all the time the grip of the ancestor who walked on his hands and feet is pulling against the hardening of the unnatural habit.

ODDLY IDENTIFIED.

Scheme Used by Doorman at Theatre In Place of "Pass-Out" Checks.

When some years ago one of the doorkeepers at a London theatre retired from his draughty calling and was pensioned off by the management it appeared that this old man in all the years of his service had never given a "pass-out" check to any one of the thousands of men who must have passed his doorway.

But he never made a mistake, says The London Mirror. No one entitled to return was ever refused and no one could pass in at the end of the interval who had not passed out at the beginning of it.

The secret of the old man's success was a curious one. He depended on his memory in a very curious way. He did not remember the men by their faces, their clothes, their hats, their boots, or by any peculiarity of gait or appearance. Manifestly such a feat would have been impossible, for ordinary "pitties" are very much alike in these details.

He took the one detail on which men do differ and remembered them by that—he recognized them by their neckties.

Gaze around you in the railway carriage as you are reading this article and ask yourself if there is any one of your fellow passengers that you could remember well enough to recognize again in, say, an hour's time.

You will find there are very few people you could be sure of. There may be one old man with a large and conspicuous beard or a very young man with a pair of spectacles of unusual size, but nine out of ten have the same sort of hat, the same sort of clothes and the same sort of figure.

Legatees in Luck.

Rich titled people sometimes have extraordinary strokes of luck. Recently, Lord Fingall found that a Mr. Joseph F. Lynch, whom he had never seen, had bequeathed him $60,000, without giving a reason for his amazing action.

Ninety-six years ago, a Mr. George Wright, who had lived a long time in very quiet style at Pimlico, died, leaving all his landed estates to Lady Allesbury, $20,000 to Lady Roslyn, $20,000 to the Speaker, and $5,000 to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Mr. Wright was not personally acquainted with any of the legatees, but he cherished a hopeless passion for Lady Roslyn, whom he had seen at the opera.

Want Women's Residence.

A movement is on foot to raise funds for the construction of a women's residence at Queen's University as a memorial to the late Mrs. Gordon, wife of the principal. All lady graduates will be asked for financial assistance. Already a big sum has been realized.

NEW PEER IN CANADA

ASQUITH'S BROTHER-IN-LAW IS LOOKING FOR INVESTMENTS.

Sir Edward Tennant is an Artist by Instinct and Like Mrs. Asquith He Loves Nature and the Quieter Pursuits—Tennants Came From Scotland, and One of the Family Was a Friend of Robert Burns.

Sir Edward Tennant, at present in Canada in connection with investments, who has just been raised to the peerage, will bring to the discharge of his duties plenty of business capacity, which he inherited from his father along with his artistic leanings. Lady Tennant, like her brother, Mr. George Wyndham, has a taste for letters, and shares with her husband a dislike for the rushing, scrambling life of London. Gardening, fishing, and other delights of the country, appeal to them both much more strongly. The new peer adds to his other gifts that of being one of the most expert anglers of the day. The Tennants came originally from the "Land of Burns"—from Alloway on the Doon. In the latter half of the eighteenth century there lived near Ochiltree a remarkable man, with a remarkable family.

This was John Tennant, the close friend of the father of Robert Burns, and one of the witnesses to the poet's baptism. Of one of John Tennant's sons (Charles) Burns wrote: "I'm tauld he offers very fairly." This offer was more than borne out, for Charles was no other than Charles Tennant, of St. Rollox, one of the founders of the great chemical trade of Glasgow, and great-grandfather of the new peer.

Cairo Justice.

There was once a robber in Cairo who fell from the second storey of a house he was trying to enter and broke one of his legs. He went to the cadi and complained. The man's window was badly made and he wanted justice. The cadi said that was reasonable, and he summoned the owner of the house. The owner confessed that the house was poorly built, but complained that the carpenter was to blame, and not he. This struck the cadi as sound logic, and he sent for the carpenter.

"The charge is, alas, too true," said the carpenter, "but the masonry was at fault and I couldn't fit a good window." So the cadi, impressed with the reasonableness of the argument, sent for the mason. The mason pleaded guilty, but explained that a pretty girl in a blue gown had passed the building while he was at work, and that his attention had been diverted from his duty. The cadi thereupon demanded that the girl be brought before him. "It is true," she said, "that I am pretty, but it's no fault of mine. If my gown attracted the mason, the dyer should be punished and not I." "Quite true," said the cadi, "send for the dyer."

The dyer was brought to the bar and pleaded guilty. That settled it. The cadi told the robber to take the guilty wretch to his house and hang him from the door sill, and the populace rejoiced that justice had been done. But pretty soon the crowd returned to the cadi's house, complaining that the dyer was too long to be properly hanged from his door sill. "Oh, well," said the cadi, who by that time was suffering with ennui, "go find a short dyer and hang him. Justice shall prevail."

Stone-bored Well.

In Sherbrooke, Que., a power company began work on a dam and in the bottom of the river discovered a perfect well, round and smooth bored. The engineers followed it down and found the well was 30 feet deep and still boring. A round stone, whirled by the rush of the river, had been boring—for how many million years? It was still whirling, turbinelike, and still boring.

Metropolitan Berlin!

Berlin is getting to be more like New York every day. Just imagine two plays and two picture shows doing a land office business on one night." So says one of the town's papers.

Tobacco in Lambton.

The interest in tobacco has spread to Lambton and next spring will see fields of tobacco growing in the vicinity of Forest.

TO AVERT COAL FAMINE

RUSHING COAL FROM THE EAST TO THE WEST

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company is preparing for an Unprecedented Emergency, and is putting forth every effort to provide a supply of coal for the farmers of Western Canada.

Winnipeg, Man.—No one in the west knows one-tenth as much of the seriousness of the coal strike situation as the Canadian Pacific. The company has the exact information with reference to the location of every pound of coal in the country which is available for use; knows exactly what the ultimate sources of supply are, and knows the exact conditions with reference to the difficulty connected with transportation.

Knowing what it does about the situation the Canadian Pacific is doing what it has never done previously in its history to provide against contingencies. At the dock at Fort William there will be a boat unloading coal for the company's locomotives every hour of the day and night until the ice forms in the lake and navigation is over for the year. In addition, there will be boats alongside unloading merchandise coal as it comes in.

For the first time the company is also unloading coal this year for the far western lines at Jackfish bay. At this point there will be provided this year for far western lines 10,000 tons of steam-coal. The company is also operating two trains a day from Duluth. This coal is coming into the west by way of Port and Moose Jaw. Action of this kind was never taken before.

The Canadian Pacific, which is thus in close touch with the situation, knowing all the facts, is preparing for an unprecedented emergency. The effort is made to provide a supply of coal for winter in case the strike should be prolonged. If the strike should be terminated quickly, the company will lose a large amount of money on the coal which it has carried so far west, but it has taken this chance to provide domestic coal for the farmers of Western Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, who are the people in the gravest danger. Nothing of a special nature has been done, and no precautions have been taken by anyone to see that these people do not freeze to death.

Wants a White Man's Land

Melbourne.—The renewal, with modifications, of the Anglo-Japanese treaty, is welcomed by the Australian government. The acting premier, Mr. Hughes, declares that the changes made in the existing treaty will aid the cause of peace very considerably. At the same time the minister is careful to add that the policy of a white Australia will in no way be affected by any agreement of the kind.

A number of Dutch pearl fishers caught poaching off the coast of western Australia were fined one hundred pounds. If the fine is not paid, the pearl fishers, which were seized, will be sold.

During the last four years the federal parliament has provided half a million pounds sterling to pay bounties on the production in Australia of coffee, hemp, tobacco, and dried fruits. So far only $8,000 has been claimed and the question of the abolition of the bounties is now being raised.

Trying to Break Anglo-French Entente

London.—Some of the London morning papers are beginning to express uneasiness at the Germans' rumored demands for territory in the French Congo and for a sphere of influence in Morocco. They are inclined to believe that the rumor exaggerated the real demands, and point out that if it is true, Germany's attitude is suspiciously provocative.

The opinion is also offered that Germany's intention is to test the strength of the Anglo-French entente or endeavor to drive a wedge into it and the government is counselled to stand firmly by France.

Wireless Messages Will Be Cheaper

London.—At the annual meeting of the Marconi Wireless company recently the Marconi said the company would probably carry into effect the intention of accepting plain English transatlantic messages at fourpence per word. Referring to Sir Joseph Ward's scheme proposed at the conference, he said the company would have preferred to carry out its own scheme but would be satisfied if the negotiations resulted in their erecting stations on behalf of the government.

The Trade Report

New York.—Despatches to Dunn's Review, from branch offices of R. G. Dunn and company, in leading trade centres bear the continuance of previous favorable conditions throughout the Dominion of Canada, and in numerous instances considerable improvement, owing to recent rains and cool weather.

Royal Residence in Ireland

London.—A royal residence in Ireland has been suggested in the highest quarters, says the Dublin correspondent of the Times, and the idea has been accepted.

Supt. Hussey Dead

Victoria, B.C.—Supt. F. S. Hussey, head of the provincial police of British Columbia, died here recently after a long illness.

TRADE BOOMING

Labor Gazette Says Conditions Were Prosperous During June

Ottawa.—The Labor Gazette in its monthly summary of business and industrial conditions, states that during the month of June prosperous conditions prevailed in all branches of Canadian manufacture, and arrangements were being made for the establishment of many new industries in the Dominion. The general tone of the lumber industry was healthy. Unskilled labor was well employed, railway construction absorbing a large number of men. Generally speaking all classes of labor were well employed, except in a few cases. The supply of labor generally equalled the demand. During the month there was general activity in nearly all branches of industry throughout Canada. Industrial accidents occurred to 192 working people. Of these, 82 were fatal, and 11 had serious results.

The number of trade disputes was 27, an increase of 9 compared with June, 1910. The loss of time to employees during the month was approximately 355,425 working days, compared with 299,400 days in May, and 75,500 in June, 1910.

REPLY TO GERMAN OFFICER

Kingsmill Has Something to Say About Aspersions Cast On Navy

Ottawa.—The attention of Admiral Kingsmill was directed to an interview given in Montreal by an officer of the German cruiser Bremen to the effect that the Niobe of the Canadian navy will be of no use in time of war.

"Neither the Niobe nor the Rainbow was bought or intended for a fighting ship," stated the admiral. "They are to be used as training ships pure and simple. It is unfortunate that through lack of proper explanation the idea has got abroad that obsolete vessels have been bought by Canada for defensive purposes, when really there has never been any intention whatever that these particular ships should be used for any purpose other than that of training naval cadets. At the same time I may observe that there are many German ships afloat which are not as good as the Niobe."

Labor Unions to Help McNamara

Washington.—The American Federation of Labor recently instituted a vigorous programme to raise money with which to conduct the defence of the McNamara charged with dynamiting the plant of The Los Angeles Times. In addition to the general appeal through the press of the country it is planned to augment the fund by the sale of buttons bearing a picture of J. J. McNamara and the word "Kidnapped." Stamps carrying a photograph of McNamara, and designed to be used on the back of envelopes also will be offered for sale.

Station Almost Demolished

Calgary.—The demolition of the C. P. R. express and baggage station has been almost completed and within a week or so excavation for the foundation of the west wing of the depot will be started. The baggage and Dominion Express office is now located in a temporary frame structure on Ninth Avenue, east of the telegraph office.

Mines Can Produce Coal

Lacombe, Alta.—Senator Peter Talbot declares his mines on the Red Deer can produce enough coal to avert a famine in Calgary if the G. T. P. can haul it. The Rolston mine begins operations this week at Alix, and the management claims an output of 200 tons a day.

Lord Knolly's Secretary to Retire

London.—Truth says Lord Knolly's principal private secretary to King George, is to retire. He will be succeeded by Lord Stamfordham.

BRITAIN WILL STAND FIRM

WILL MAINTAIN HER PRESTIGE
AMONG THE POWERS

David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Delivers a Remarkable Speech, Full of Significance—Says the Peace of the World is More Likely to be Secured, if Nations Realize the Conditions.

London.—Addressing a banquet given by the bankers of London David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, referred to Great Britain's continually growing prosperity which he said could only be arrested by a disturbance of the world's peace.

Therefore, he was ready to make great sacrifice to preserve peace and would rejoice at the success of the arbitration negotiations with the United States, but, he added, it was essential that Great Britain at all hazards should maintain her place and prestige among the great powers. If a situation were forced upon Great Britain which could only be preserved by the surrender of the position won by centuries of her achievements by allowing herself to be treated where vital interests were concerned as though she were of no account in the cabinet of nations, then, he said, emphatically, peace at that price would be a thing intolerable for the great country like England to endure.

"A nation's honor," said the chancellor, "is no party question. The security of our international trade is not a party question. The peace of the world is more likely to be secured if all nations realize fairly what the conditions of peace must be."

The speech made a deep impression on his listeners. The audience interpreted the speech to mean that the Moroccan situation is serious.

The Liberal papers which refer to the fact that Chancellor Lloyd-George in his address read the important passages slowly and carefully from a prepared manuscript, regard his utterances as the embodiment of the cabinet's views, and it is not doubted that it was a hint to Germany with regard to Morocco. The papers express the opinion that this word in season may prevent the situation arising through Germany's demands before getting too critical.

50,000 Harvest Hands Necessary

Winnipeg, Man.—C. B. Foster, of the C. P. R., and R. Creelman, of the Canadian Northern; J. Bruce Walker, immigration commissioner; J. J. Golden, deputy minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, met in the office of Mr. Foster recently, and the result was that a conservative estimate was arrived at of the number of harvest hands that will be required to handle this season's crop of the west. The estimate indicates that from Eastern Canada the railways will have to bring in 50,000 men, twice the number required last season.

Alberta is calculating on needing 10,000 and Saskatchewan and Manitoba 20,000 each. The session discussed the probability of 10,000 harvest hands being available from the immediate south on account of a smaller harvest than was expected there.

Prince of Wales Not Coming West

London.—Lord Stamfordham, private secretary to King George, telegraphs from Holyrood Castle, Edinburgh, saying there is no truth in the reports that the Prince of Wales is going to visit New York and other American cities.

Hammond Praises English Hospitality

New York.—Praising British hospitality, John Hays Hammond, special American ambassador to the Coronation, has returned. Hammond said everywhere in England the utmost friendship was expressed for America.

COMPULSORY SERVICE

93,000 Lads Will Receive Instruction in the Use of Arms in Australia

Melbourne.—The actual training of the youth of Australia under the scheme of compulsory military service, prepared by Lord Kitchener, has begun. 93,000 lads will receive instruction in the use of arms.

A gratifying feature of the examination of the lads enrolled last January throughout the Commonwealth is that 94 per cent. of those who presented themselves proved medically fit, and in some states the percentage was as high as 96.

Lord Kitchener's scheme for Australia included a land force of 80,000 men, half to defend the cities and ports and half to be free to operate as a mobile striking force anywhere in the island continent.

Cadets should join the military college between the ages of 16 and 19. The term at the college would be for three years, and parents would pay $40 annually, except when the cadet wins a scholarship. Lord Kitchener recommended that a cadet, on completing his course and obtaining his commission, should be sent to India or Great Britain to join a regiment for six months' training.

ILLEGAL ACTION

Railway Commission Decides Railroads May Not Protect Refiners Against Crude Oil From States

Ottawa.—The railway companies which attempted to protect Canadian refiners against the importation of crude oil from United States were committing an illegal action in so doing, and that as a matter of principle railway companies could not attempt rate adjustment with a view of protecting any industry or section of the public was an important finding issued by the railway commission recently in the case of the Canadian Oil company, limited, against the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific railways. The oil companies claimed that the railways had unjustly discriminated against them upon shipments of petroleum and its products between certain Canadian and American points, by refusing to carry the commodity at fifth class rates.

Brains Developed by Electricity

London.—Bright and "briny" children, with robust physical development, by means of electricity, is the promise held out to mankind by the experiments conducted in Stockholm at the suggestion of Professor Svante Arrhenius.

Fifty school children have been divided into two groups. They are identical in point of health, height, and weight, and are placed in two classrooms. One class is subject to discharges of electricity, and the other is not.

Though the experiment is not yet concluded, it has been found possible already to report that the "electrified" children have responded by showing greater mental and physical development than the children not so treated.

Reward for Capture

Minneapolis, Minn.—The total of $7,500 was hung up recently by the Northern Pacific as a reward for the capture and conviction of three men, who boarded the North Coast Limited eastbound between Valley City and Buffalo, N. D., at midnight Wednesday, shot Engineer E. D. Olson, and robbed the passengers of jewelry, watches and money. For the capture and conviction of any one of the three robbers the road will pay $2,500.

All Despatching to Be Done by Phone

Toronto.—W. W. Ashall, of Montreal, superintendent of G. T. R. telegraphs, announced recently that the company would adopt the telephone instead of the telegraph for dispatching purposes over its entire system.

New Union Station In Winnipeg Consistent With City's Growth

A conspicuous architectural feature of the City of Winnipeg is the recently opened Union or Fort Garry Station on Main Street at the foot of Broadway.

This building took several years in construction, and it was found necessary to enlarge on the original plans, so rapid has been the city's development.

It is the first metropolitan terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and serves also as a worthy home for the Canadian Northern to replace the old Fort Garry station nearby, which was destroyed by fire.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON V.—THIRD QUARTER,
FOR JULY 30, 1911.

Text of the Lesson, II Chron. xxxiv, 14-33—Memory Verse, 21—Golden Text, Ps. cxix, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

We are still in the reign of good King Josiah, and the heart of this lesson is a book, the book of the law of the Lord by Moses, a book concerning which we read in Josh. i, 8, "This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth, but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein, for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success." It is also written of the blessed man in Ps. i, 2, "His delight is in the law of the Lord, and in His law doth he meditate day and night."

No one rejoiced more than Jeremiah over the finding of this book, for he said, "Thy words were found, and I did eat them, and Thy word was unto me the joy and rejoicing of mine heart, for I am called by Thy name, Lord God of hosts." David could say, "I rejoice at Thy word as one that findeth great spoil" (Ps. cxix, 162). If our hearts are right with God nothing in all the world will be so precious to us as the word of God. Not only will our hearts burn within us when the Spirit opens to us the Scriptures, but there will be a boiling or bubbling up as we hear of things touching the King (Luke xxiv, 32; Ps. xiv, 1).

There is but one principal person in all the book from Genesis to Revelation, even the one who said: "Lo, I come—in the volume of the book it is written of me, I delight to do thy will, O my God! Yea, thy law is within my heart" (Ps. xi, 7, 8). It was for Him that Josiah was king, sitting upon His throne as His representative (I Chron. xxix, 23; II Chron. ix, 8), and the finding of this book must have been to Josiah like a special message from Jehovah. It was in connection with the repairing of the house of the Lord that the book was found, and we are reminded of Hosea vi, 3, "Then shall we know if we follow on to know the Lord." Josiah was earnestly doing the best he knew when by this book the Lord revealed Himself more fully. It is by His word that the Lord always reveals Himself (I Sam. iii, 21). He is the Living Word, and He reveals Himself to us by His written word, in which we see Him and know Him.

When the king heard the words of the book as they were read to him by Shaphan, the scribe, he rent his clothes, for he saw therein his sin and the sin of his people and that great wrath from the Lord was upon him because they had not kept the word of the Lord to do after all that was written in the book (verse 21). There was a prophetess in Jerusalem named Huldah, and to her they went to inquire of the Lord concerning these matters. Let all believing women be encouraged by this and by the remembrance of Priscilla instructing Apollos and by the fact that the first resurrection message was given by the Lord Jesus to a woman and that the first proclamation of the gospel in Europe was at a woman's prayer meeting and also by the story of Philip's daughter and by Ps. lxxviii, 11, Rev. Ver., to let the Lord use them as His witnesses as He may lead. The seeming prohibitions in several places refer to order instead of confusion, and to this day in some of the eastern churches the women babble in time of service and even ask their husbands by name and ask questions which ought to be asked at home instead of disturbing the congregation. Let all who are taught of the Lord hold themselves ready to teach others at every opportunity, for if ever there was a time when true witnesses were needed it is now, when women as well as men are being so used by the devil against the truth.

How grand to hear this woman of God say, "Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, tell ye the man that sent you to me" (verse 23). To a true servant of the Lord He is all, and to please Him is everything; men are nothing except they glorify God. See the Lord's commendation of Josiah in verse 27, and note his tender heart, his humility and true penitence, and note in Isa. lvii, 15, that He who dwells in the high and holy place also dwells with him who is of a humble and contrite spirit.

Josiah promptly gathered priests and Levites and all the people, great and small, and read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant, and there they made a covenant before the Lord to serve Him as He required with all their heart and soul, and all the days of Josiah they departed not from following the Lord, the God of their fathers.

In such men as Jeroboam and Ahab and Manasseh we see how much evil one man can do and how far-reaching the results, but in such men as Hezekiah, Jehoshaphat and Josiah we see what God can do through even such imperfect men if only sincerely obedient to Him. As this is our last study of Josiah, we must not fail to notice his great passover, the like of which had not been seen in Israel since the days of Samuel (chapter xxxv, 18). That leads on to the passover which our Lord Jesus so greatly desired to keep with His disciples and to its future fulfillment in His kingdom (Luke xxii, 15, 16).

Synopsis of Coal Mining Regulations

(COAL mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and Alberta and the Yukon Territory, the North-West Territories and British Columbia may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1.00 an acre. Not more than 2500 acres will be leased to one applicant.)

Application for a lease must be made to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights are applied for.

In surveyed land the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the track applied for shall be staked out.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns, monthly, accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If he ceases mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

The Minister may reserve for an applicant the coal mining rights under 2500 acres of contiguous lands for two years. Application for such right must be made to the Agent. Fee $100.00. An expenditure at the rate of $1.00 an acre per annum, in prospecting by recognized methods, must be incurred.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

Synopsis of Canadian North West Land Regulations

Any person who is the head of a family, or any male over 21 years of age, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $2.00 per acre.

Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn home homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

DOMINION ELECTIONS SEPTEMBER, 15TH

Ottawa, July 30—With over two years of its legal tenure of office still to run, the eleventh parliament of Canada has been dissolved. The government on Saturday morning, after a full meeting of the cabinet council decided that any further attempt to pass the reciprocity agreement in the face of the frank and determined obstruction of the minority of the people's representatives in parliament was useless and on the advice of his ministers, the governor general yesterday afternoon issued proclamations proroguing the house and dissolving parliament, calling for an election and a new parliament on September 21 with nominations on September 14 and providing for the issuing of the writ forthwith to be returnable on October 7, fixing October 11, as tentative date for the meeting of the new parliament.

It was a smiling and confident prime minister who met the correspondents at the door of the council chamber at 1.30 yesterday, after the conclusion of the cabinet council session.

"Gentlemen," he said, "Mr Fielding has some news for you." It was a characteristic and tactful compliment to the finance minister, who is primarily responsible for the drafting of the reciprocity agreement and a significant indication of the issue on which the battle will be fought. Then Mr Fielding also smiling and confident made the brief but pregnant announcement.

"Gentlemen, parliament has been dissolved. Elections will take place on September 21."

The news spread like wild fire. Pressmen hurrying to the telegraph offices were waylaid by the anxiously waiting members who had but an hour or so before got word of rumor that the end had arrived.

an ethereal song. Without the eight-sided screen is a number of cloisters, where the Persian, or Arabic, priests sang their laments for the Queen Jehan. The responses from the dome to their musical prayers must have resembled the harmonies of cherubims in Paradise.

For miles from Agra the Taj bosomed high among the city buildings, smiles at the departing traveller. On the horizon the incomparable tomb merges into the sky losing, as it were, its materiality and becoming a small cloud, tinted like a dove's wing, linking the earthly with the heavenly in a brotherhood which should be everlasting.

WHEN PASTURE IS POOR

The advantages of a good pasture can be replaced by the regular use of Herbageum. It has been used and tested for about twenty-five years without failure with horses, cows, fat cattle, sheep, pigs and poultry. It insures good health and better returns. It keeps sheep free from ticks and the wool clip will be heavier and better. The flavor of the milk and butter are improved when it is given regularly. As good calves can be raised with skim or separated milk and Herbageum as with new milk, and when the milk is scarce do not kill your calves as you can make a fine calf meal equal to any on the market at a cost of 1½ cents per lb. Try the following—100 lbs. oil cake, 300 lbs. shorts, 4 lbs. Herbageum and about 1 lb. of salt. Mix these thoroughly and stir about two cupfuls in a gallon of scalding water and feed warm. With poultry good health, brilliant plumage and plenty of eggs are sure if you will use Herbageum.

It's the united efforts of little things that make big troubles.

When Blood Was Impure

The Old-fashioned Doctor Brought Relief by Bleeding

Today We Keep the Blood Pure by Using

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

The doctor of a century or two ago was accustomed to free his patient of an excess of poisoned blood by the cruel process of bleeding.

We would not stand for that heroic treatment today because we understand better the work of the liver and kidneys and how to awaken them to their duty of filtering poisons from the blood.

These are the only organs of the body which filter poisons from the blood and so cleanse the system of the foul waste matter which causes pains, aches and dangerous diseases, and there is no way you can so quickly bring the liver and kidneys into action as by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Don't imagine that a liquid medicine is necessary to purify the blood. The supreme test is, "Does the treatment awaken the action of the liver and invigorate the kidneys?" Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unique in their combined action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and on this account wonderfully successful as a means of purifying the blood.

The whole digestive and excretory system is cleansed and invigorated by this treatment. The appetite is sharpened, digestion improves, and the tired, languid feelings of a poisoned system give way to new health and vigor. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmansson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

ENGLISH RUGBY FOOTBALL

Old Country Style of Game is Making Rapid Strides in the Dominion.

In the past year an effort has been made to revive the English game of rugby football in the province of Quebec, and three strong teams have been formed in Montreal playing the game under the British Rugby Union rules. The three clubs are McGill University, Montreal English Rugby Football Club, and the Canadian Pacific Railway, E.R.F.C. In Ottawa the Royal Naval College also hopes to take up the game. English rugby football is further played to a great extent in Winnipeg, extreme Eastern Canada, British Columbia and California, where it has in recent years taken the place of the American game.

While it is not the wish of English rugby clubs in Canada to try and make converts to the British game, yet they feel that it is time that Canada, especially on account of her close situation to Great Britain, be able to put a fifteen in the field under British rugby rules and capable of holding its own against representative teams of Great Britain, or any of her overseas dominions.

This would make one game of rugby throughout the Empire and induce British, as well as the teams of South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand to visit Canada.

Almost 500 first class clubs are members of the British Rugby Football Union, and these clubs are spread all over the world, the head office of the rugby board being in London, England.

The rules governing the British game have changed considerably since the game was last played in these parts of Canada, now many years ago, and the game as played to-day is, no doubt, the fastest, exciting and most spectacular game of football in existence.

There are lots of men in this country who know and have played the grand old game, and many will probably come forward now and help the game along in the Dominion.

An English International team will probably visit Canada in the spring of next year.

Montreal is Changing.

The aspect of the City of Montreal is changing rapidly, day by day. The spread of the residential areas westward, and northward, is simply phenomenal. The downtown section, which at the present time, is extending as far as Ontario street, is being rapidly given over to the ever-increasing demands of business. Numbers of old churches have already disappeared, within the last few years, and more will disappear in the near future. Old landmarks are disappearing and new ones are taking their place.

For years to come there will continue a succession of pulling down and building-up, each fresh instance showing that the founders of Montreal never realized the proportions to which it would attain. A few figures will show succinctly what the growth of Montreal has been, and what may be expected in the future.

The population in 1800 was 9,000; 1816, 16,000; 1825, 22,000; 1852, 57,700; 1900, 202,260; in 1905, there was an estimated population of 291,092; in 1906 after the annexation of St. Henry, St. Cuneonde and Villere, it was 337,496 and in 1908, 352,500. The present population of Montreal and its suburbs is probably about half a million.

The rapid growth of the City of Montreal, is shown by the fact that in 1883 its area was 4,624 acres; which had grown to 5,972 acres in 1900. Ten years later with various annexations, it had reached the extent of 25,747 acres, or over 40 square miles. Since 1868 the taxable real estate of the city had increased in value ten times over, from $39,174,120 to $319,341,618 in 1910. In the same period the value of exempt property had increased from $5,017,800 to $109,192,499.

Shoes With Toes.

A novelty in shoes introduced in Germany has partitions to separate the wearer's toes. The interior of these shoes terminates in soft pads pressing against the foot, so that the thrust in walking is taken at the base of the toes instead of the point. Jamming of the toes is thus prevented. It is claimed that the deforming of the feet, now so common, will be avoided by this arrangement and that walking will be made more comfortable.

Patience

The Pill That Brings Relief.—When, after one has partaken of a meal he is oppressed by feelings of fullness and pains in the stomach he suffers from dyspepsia, which will persist if he be not dealt with. These pills are specially compounded to deal with dyspepsia, and their sterling qualities in this respect can be vouched for by legions of users.

BISHOPS AND REPORTERS.

Archbishop O'Connor Could Not Bear to See a Note Book.

The announcement that Archbishop O'Connor had confirmed three hundred children in St. Michael's Cathedral will remind people of the mutability of human life, says a writer in Toronto Star Weekly. Here is the man who retired from the see because of weight of years and in order to prepare for death taking up the work which the apparently vigorous young man was cut off by death from performing. The return of Dr. O'Connor, even temporarily, into public life reminds the writer of an interesting episode connected with this saintly and humble-minded man. The writer was told off to report Archbishop O'Connor's sermon at the blessing of the bells of St. Mary's Church, Bathurst street, Toronto. Seated in the front pew immediately under the pulpit, I was writing away, oblivious of everything but getting down the sermon, when suddenly there was a break in the discourse, and as I looked up to see what was the matter, the Archbishop leaned over the pulpit and said: "My friend, would you kindly put away your notebook. It disturbs me." Of course, I put away the notebook and reported the rest of the sermon from memory.

This reminds me of two other archbishops with whom I had rather interesting experiences. The first was Archbishop Tache of St. Boniface, in Manitoba. On one occasion after I had interviewed him in the palace library, he said: "You must excuse my not going to the door with you, because I am sick in my legs." Then he added with a smile, "Some people think I am sick in my head, but I assure you the old man's head is sound yet." Considering the hard work he was then doing, and did afterwards perform, many people were ready to agree that Archbishop Tache was not sick in his head.

The other instance was in connection with his successor, Archbishop Langevin. The Manitoba school question controversy was then at its height, and the newspaper I was working on was strongly opposed to Separate schools, which Archbishop Langevin was as strenuously supporting. When I called to see him he said jocularly: "I just received an account for your paper this afternoon. I don't know whether I shall continue to take it or not. It is bad enough to be abused without having to pay for it." All of which goes to show that these prelates, weighted with the burdens of great offices and responsibilities, are still moved like other men and capable of seeing the lighter side of life.

Land of Promise.

J. L. Cote, who represent Athabasca in the Alberta Legislature, seems to be the right man for that riding, the area of which is, roughly speaking, 75,000 square miles. He is said to be thoroughly acquainted with his huge constituency, and that statement appears more easily believable when one remembers that he is a civil engineer.

Mr. Cote is enthusiastic concerning the possibilities of Athabasca, and in a speech in the Legislature, which included quotations from the opinions of other civil engineers and from geological reports, he gave reasons for his faith in the big riding's future.

In the conclusion of his speech he became prophetic.

"Quite true," he said, "we can slur the north country by saying that there are muskegs. But swamp land is land that needs drainage. In the south of the province the C.P.R. advertise today millions of acres of irrigated land for sale. These lands were once considered as useless. I claim that the only difference between these two classes of lands is that in one case you take the water from the rivers and pour it on the land, and in the other you take the water from the land and pour it into the rivers. Therefore, a share of the public money that is expended for irrigation in the south should be expended for drainage in the north, and in a few years we will be able to advertise millions of acres of the best land for occupation."

Helping the Frontiersman.

One of the big problems before the Canadian people to-day is the education of the men who are doing the rough work on the frontier. They labor all day in lumber woods, in mines and in railway construction gangs. When night comes they have no place to go except to the crude camp for food and rest. Without proper facilities for comfort and health, their hours of idleness are often their undoing. Just as in cities the supreme social problem is to provide for the hours in the lives of young men between work and sleep, so it is in big frontier camps.

For ten years the Reading Camp Association has been working to save the frontier laborers for lives of usefulness as Canadian citizens. The association has enlisted the interest and co-operation of many of our leading citizens in this great work and has received the personal assistance of a score or more of university men who teach classes and conduct reading circles among the men in the camps.—Toronto Globe.
